

Support our humanitarian mission.

Your contribution changes everything

I understood that this is exactly the Red Cross' role.

When I watch the news and see people who find themselves out on the street because of a fire, I always feel like doing something to help them. One day, during a fundraising campaign at work, I realized that this is exactly the Red Cross' role and I decided to make a donation and have it withdrawn directly from my pay. In this way, I provide the Red Cross and its volunteers with the means to rush to the scene of disasters and offer emergency assistance to those affected by these events. I am happy to contribute and to take part, in my own way, in supporting this important work.
